Fabrizio Panozzo is Associate Professor in the Department of Management of University Ca' Foscari in Venice and since 2010, also teaches Strategic Management in the Public Sector at Free University of Bozen-Bolzano.

In 1995, Fabrizio gained his PhD in Business Administration (Dottorato in Economia Aziendale) at the Department of Economics and Business Management at Università Ca' Foscari di Venezia (Italy). Moreover, in 1992, he earned an MBA from the Institute for International Business Studies, Clemson University, South Carolina (United States) and in 1991 a MsC in Business Administration (Laurea in Economia Aziendale) from University Ca 'Foscari of Venice (Italy).

Fabrizio began his academic career in the UK in mid 1990s and later joined Università Ca' Foscari where he now teaching classes of Advanced Management Studies, International Financial And Management Accounting, Alternative Management Studies, as well as classes dealing with City Management, Public Sector Management and Non Profit Organization Management.

Since January 2011, Fabrizio is the Chairman of the Independent Authority for Evaluation Regione Veneto Government Agency and is preparing an assessment of the performance of the administrative and executive branches of the regional government.

Fabrizio is also an Associate Scholar at the European Institute for Advances Studies in Management, Bruxelles.

His research activity has concentrated on the social and political dimensions of accounting and calculative practices in organizations and societies. Is a member of the Faculty of the Doctoral Colloquium of the European Accounting Association and founding member and vice President of the European Academy of Management. He has acted as the Scientific Coordinator of the euroconference project “Financial reporting and regulatory practices in Europe (firre)” (2000/2003) and has been actively involved Euroconference Project “Accounting research in Europe. Engaging research and practice” (1997/1999) and in the Research and Training Network “Accounting and Management in the Reform of European Health Care Systems” (1998/2001).