

Announcement of a Professorship Position in Management of Cooperatives

The Free University of Bozen-Bolzano, Italy, is planning to open a position of an Endowed Professorship in Management of Cooperatives Stiftungsprofessor für Management von Genossenschaften Professore straordinario in gestione delle cooperative in the newly founded Competence Centre for Cooperatives Management, which is affiliated to the Faculty of Economics and Management. The position is for three years and may be renewed for additional three years.

Though the research interest of the position holder may be broad, the research in the competence center should be related to for-profit, business, and social cooperatives. The research will be focused on general social, ecological, and economic trends as well as management aspects outside the cooperative sector that may be of importance for the further development and security of cooperatives. Specific research topics of interest include the following:

- institutional role and regional significance of cooperatives;
- leadership and management of cooperatives;
- leadership of employees of cooperatives.

We invite interested candidates to send a CV to president@unibz.it within 30 September 2022. For more information, please contact us at the same email address.
