

Pricing Climate Emissions: Lessons on Efficiency and Fairness from Sweden

Prof. Thomas Sterner, University of Gothenburg

Monday,
23 February 2026
18:00 – 19:15

Location:
F6 / unibz Campus Bozen

Universitätsplatz 1 - Piazza Università, 1

Building on his extensive career as a leading environmental economist, Thomas Sterner draws on decades of research, policy advisory work, and international experience with institutions such as the IPCC, governments, and global organizations. The talk shows how economic analysis, real-world policy design, and empirical evidence can inform effective carbon pricing, highlighting practical lessons on efficiency, fairness, and political feasibility from Sweden's long-standing experience with pricing climate emissions.
